SIR JOHN'S FUNERAL.

THE IMPOSING OBSEQUIES AT THE FUNERAL.

A Magnificent Speech by the Leader of the Opposition—The Body Lying in State in the Parliament Buildings—Fitting Honors to the Dead.

OTTAWA, June 9.—Just at 6 o'clock this morning, a quiet mournful procession drove up to the House of Commons entrance. The first there was Mr. Maynard Rogers, undertaker, then the cabs containing six Dominion policemen, followed by the hearse containing the mortal remains of the Rt. Hon. Sir John Macdonald. Coming behind in a cab were Mrs. Hugh John Macdonald, Fred White, Jno. Pope and Mr. Geo. Sparks. Behind them again was Constable Clarke in charge of the insignia of office of the dead Premier, whose body was being brought to the Senate chamber, where it now lies in state. Late last night the burial service of the Anglican church was read privately before the members of the household by Rev. A. J. Bogert, rector of St. Albans. The casket was deposited upon the rests in the centre of the Senate chamber, and near by on a small draped table, were laid the insignia of his earthly honors, the sash and the star of the Order of the Bath, the Order of St. Michael and St. George, and others, were placed on the casket, and on a table placed at either side lay the magnificent floral tributes, wreathes and pillows. There is little draping of the chamber. The tables and desks and chairs were all removed from the floors, which is covered over with white cloth, and brass nails. Behind the throne and at the bar of the House, the furniture is heavily draped in black. The throne is masked with the Canadian Ensigns. In lieu of a catafalque, a rest for the casket is placed in the centre of the floor. This is covered with black cloth, fluted with festooned cords and fringed on the east side of this, to the left of the throne, and protected at the east end by a carrier in black, stands a twelve foot shield in black cloth, bearing on its centre a portrait of Her Majesty, draped with ensigns. The Dominion police were stationed at intervals of space about the chamber, and at the doors, and shortly after ten o'clock His Excellency arrived, accompanied by Lord Kilcouaset and Capt. Walsh, A. D.C., General Herbert and Lieut. Streatfield, A.D.C. His Excellency was dressed in plain black and was the first admitted to look at the casket. He carried in his hand a beautiful wreath which he solemnly deposited on the center of the casket. To it was attached a card with words "In loving memory; from Stanley of Preston and Constance Stanley." Following came the late Premier's colleagues in the Cabinet, headed by Sir Hector Langevin, and in order of seniority as privy councillors. After that the public were allowed to look on the features of the dead. They entered by the main door and after passing the casket made an exit by the two doors behind the throne. The crush to get in had by this time grown tremendous, and progress was slow. Two policemen at the door leading to the Senate lobby admitted a few score at a time and then closed the doors until those inside had been passed into the Chamber by the police at an inside door. They marched in single file past the coffin and through the plate glass top could be plainly seen the dead Premier. He was dressed in the uniform of a privy councillor, with his right hand grasping a cockade hat. His face was placid but so discolored, smooth and light that it was by no means a pleasant sight. Two members of the Conservative party in the House stood one on each side of the coffin in relays of four. They were guarding the remains and will take charge of them day and night until the interment at Kingston. Over 1200 people an hour are crowding into the chamber.

IN THE HOUSE.

Sir Hector and Mr. Laurier Move Resolution of Condolence.

OTTAWA, June 9.—In the House this afternoon Langevin, in tears, read a brief eulogy of the late Sir John, mentioning how long and intimate he had been associated with him.

Hon. Mr. Laurier made a speech that for oratorical effort and brilliancy of language will be handed down to posterity.

Sir Hector moved that the House adjourn until Tuesday 16th, and Laurier pointed out that he had no objection to adjournment, but according to British precedent, Sir Hector should be able to announce who the government has sent for to form a new Government. It was well to follow British institutions.

Sir Hector said that most of the time was engaged with the funeral and some time was necessary to organize the new Government.

Laurier replied that if Sir Hector said any one was sent for, that would be enough, and if not, according to British customs, the House should meet from day to day except the day of the funeral.

Sir J. Thompson said an adjournment was not more to give time to form a Government, but for the funeral arrangements.

Mr. Mills quoted British precedent to show that nothing of the kind was known before, as the country will be without a leader or Government for a week.

The motion was carried on a division.

Abbott and Scott made telling addresses in the Senate, which adjourned for a week from Wednesday.

READS LIKE TREASON.

Editor O'Connor Says the Prince is on Trial as Well as Cummings.

LONDON, June 8.—Though Sir Wm. Gordon-Cummings has published a denial of the report that he was engaged to marry Miss Florence Garner of New York, the fact has been learned that a special license is in existence permitting Sir William and Miss Garner to be married in any church in the London diocese. The granting of the license in this case was presumably for the purpose of avoiding the notoriety which would be incurred if the public were advised as to what particular church the ceremony was performed in.

The amount and intensity of gossip about the famous baccarat case shows no indication of lessening. Sir William Gordon-Cummings has certainly had his revenge upon those who betrayed the charge against him, if his purpose in making the legal fight now in progress was to bring some portion of the disgrace upon one higher than he. For one comment upon Sir William's part in the affair a dozen are heard about the position of the Prince of Wales.

T. P. O'Connor voices the sentiment of many on this point in a trenchant article from his pen in to day's issue of his new paper, the Sunday Sun. The editorial is headed, "Can Royalty Last?" It is declared by the writer that "the Prince of Wales is as much on trial before the people of England as Sir William is before Lord Chief Justice Coleridge and a jury." After pungently commenting upon the predicament of the Prince, the article concludes with the assertion that "one of the most sacred institutions of England, hereditary royalty, is now passing through the severest ordeal it has been subjected to for generations."

Mrs. Johnson Discharged.

BOSTON, June 9.—Judge Nelson, in the United States Circuit Court this morning, discharged Mrs. C. E. Johnson on a habeas corpus obtained by General Butler.

Another Dispute Cropping Up.

ST. PAUL, Minn., June 9.—Land speculators and explorers have selected valuable mineral and iron claims on Hawks Island, with a view of homesteading and raising the issue between the United States and Great Britain as to the boundary between Canada and Minnesota. It has been claimed heretofore by Canada, and all the maps of the United States have shown it to be on the Canadian side of the boundary line. According to the wording of the Webster-Washburn treaty, the northern boundary here was to begin at a point where the Pigeon River empties into Lake Superior and runs through Long Lake, and connecting to the northernmost point the Lake of the Woods. Now it is claimed the waters around the south side of the Island are disconnected and that Indians and explorers have to make frequent portages when traveling by them. The channel on the north side of the Island, however, is deep and continuous, and it is thought that the old treaties and conventions must have referred to the northern channel.

Hope for British Columbia.

SAN FRANCISCO, June 9.—The Chronicle this morning says: A Portland telegram informs its readers that California cannot maintain manufactures because it produces but little coal, and that most of its coal has to be imported from Pennsylvania. We are sorry that our contemporary is so illy informed on the subject. As a matter of fact manufactures flourish in California much better than in many States even as well provided with coal as Pennsylvania, and it may interest its contemporary to know that we import scarcely any Pennsylvania coal and are now paying heavy taxes to Pennsylvania coal barons. We would like to throw out a suggestion also, that in every few years, if in the meantime we do not find abundant supply of fuel within our own borders, that the mines of Washington will be devoped to such an extent that with the aid of cheap transportation we may have as abundant and low priced a supply for steam purposes as the New England States.

Premier Greenway's Opinion.

CHICAGO, June 9.—J. Greenway, Premier of Manitoba, passed through the city yesterday journeying to Ottawa, where he goes to attend the funeral of Sir John Macdonald. On being interviewed at the Grand Pacific, Mr. Greenway said: "Notwithstanding the fact that all hopes of Sir John Macdonalds recovery were given up some days ago, his death caused a sudden shock over all the Dominion of Canada."

"What of the political future?" was asked.

"That can hardly be considered now. It has been said that the loss of Sir John's great personality would destroy the party that he led so long. It has been stated that with his death ends all hope of the Canadian nation. Some Canadian politicians think that a new party will be born. The new party will believe in an alliance with England."

Cumming's Defeated.

LONDON, June 9.—The suit for libel instituted by Sir Wm. Gordon-Cummings, growing out of the latter's methods of playing baccarat went to the jury this morning. The jury was out only 15 minutes and returned a verdict for the defendant. The verdict was generally aticipated.

THE BANK OF MONTREAL.

THE ADDRESS OF GENERAL MANAGER CLOUSTON.

The Country on the Verge of a Crisis—Financial Stringency in New York—The Baring Bros. Difficulty—Necessity for Prudence and Economy.

MONTREAL, June 2.—The 73rd annual meeting of the shareholders of the Bank of Montreal was held at 1 o'clock yesterday. The General Manager's address explains the causes for the decline in the bank's earnings, and as it is a matter of national importance his remarks are reported in full:

Mr. E. S. Clouston said: It is not a pleasant task to appear before the shareholders in my first six months of office, to give explanations with respect to a statement somewhat less favorable than those of previous years. The last six months, however, have been pregnant with events of so grave a character in the financial world, that, looking back upon them, I cannot help feeling thankful that I am not called upon to explain an even much worse result than the present. We have been on the verge of a crisis, the outcome of which no man could forete'l;—it would probably have been the most serious in the history of the world had it been allowed to run its course, but happily it was checked in time through the fact and determination of the Governor of the Bank of England, aided by a combination of the most powerful banks and bankers of London. There has been an uneasy feeling for some time, the air had been thick with rumors, and on the 6th of November the Barings notified the Bank of England they were unable to meet their engagements. It was not, however, until the 15th that it was announced to the public. The interval, meantime, had been employed in making arrangements to avert the panic, which it was feared might break out, the particulars of which are matters of history.

This crisis was followed in December by a financial stringency in New York, caused not so much by the shortage of the supply of funds in the country as by the locking up of the large quantities of gold, either through fear of the operations of the silver bill, or, some say, designedly, with a view of affecting the stock market. But whether it was hoarding caused by the natural timidity of capitalists, or whether it was through the machinations of speculators, or the natural export to pay debts due foreign countries, the gold disappeared and the result was an acutely sensitive condition of the market. Credit was suspended, some classes of long exchange were entirely unsaleable, and discounts were so difficult to procure, that merchants were put to unusual straits for want of customary banking facilities. At one time it looked very serious and it was only when some importations of gold were ordered that apprehension was removed from the public mind, and business resumed its normal condition.

As you are aware, both in the United States and in England, we have very large interests, and though we lost nothing directly, during either of the two periods, but came through with added strength to our already well-established credit, yet we have suffered indirectly. The downfall of the Barings was brought about by their inability to market the large quantity of bonds, chiefly of the South American States, which they either owned, or against which they had advanced, and though the aid afforded by the Bank of England has enabled them to take time to liquidate, there remains, hanging over the London market, large masses of securities still undigested. Until these are absorbed by the public, or written off by the holders, a fate which must befall a great portion of them, prices of securities, even the very best class, must be depressed. We always hold, or are interested in, a considerable amount of bonds and other securities, and in better times have made large profits out of that class of business, and though what we hold are all undoubtedly good and of a high class, as we have carefully avoided any of a speculative character, and have not held a foreign bond for the last three years, the market value has declined, and we have been obliged to make provision to bring them down to the price of the day. Returning to Canada, it was found necessary, during the last year, to place in liquidation several accounts which were not in a satisfactory position, with the result that we discovered that previous appropriations, considered ample at the time, were totally inadequate to meet the shrinkage in values, caused by the last three years of agricultural and commercial depression. It will also be my desire to take the shareholders into my confidence with regard to the business of the bank, to the greatest possible extent compatible with the interests of the institution; but you will readily understand how impolitic it would be for me to give any details, where the bulk of the appropriations are on debts not actually liquidated, but only in process. We have gone through the assets of the bank very carefully, and believe that very ample appropriations have been made. There has been no desire to make things appear either better or worse than they really are; but a revaluation has been made with the desire to arrive at a true result without exaggeration. As a general rule, when one bad year succeeds another, it is our experience that the appropriations are usually insufficient, and you have only to look at some of the recent failures to see how difficult it is for a banker to arrive at a true estimate of the value of his assets, when an account, estimated as quite good last year, shows now a loss of $50,000 to $75,000.

The lesson to be learned from our past experience is that in good years it is a mistake to distribute all that is earned. It is much more prudent, in order to equalize dividends, to set aside a considerable percentage of our surplus earnings in good years to meet unexpected contingencies in bad ones, which are sure to come. It is becoming more and more difficult, owing to competition, to earn our dividends, and unless we can increase our loaning power by adding to our rest, or by increasing our deposits, I do not think we would be safe, even if we made them, in distributing a larger percentage of our profits than we have done for the last few years.

If we were only satisfied that the commercial community were fully alive to the necessity of greater economy and curtailment of credit we could look forward with more confidence to the future. I cannot help feeling, however, that they are in no position to stand a succession of bad seasons arising from indifferent harvests, or other causes—there are too many in business with insufficient capital, and their stability is honeycombed by too much and too long credit.

If I am right in my interpretation of the present condition of the financial market in London, it is hardly necessary to point out to those controlling the finances of municipalities, cities, corporations, and even governments, the absolute necessity of the greatest prudence and economy. Of late there seems to have been a fever of borrowing, extending even to the smallest village. The local market can only absorb a certain quantity of securities, and if these borrowers are obliged to appeal to a market already overloaded, it means that they must negotiate their securities with difficulty, and at a much lower rate than they have hitherto obtained.

There is one reassuring feature to the shareholders, which perhaps I may be allowed to refer to. The credit of the bank never stood higher than it does at present, and its earning power is unimpaired. Notwithstanding the fact that during the periods before referred to we were obliged to keep several millions of cash unemployed to meet any possible panic that might arise, our gross profits were the largest, with one exception, since 1878—our commercial losses for this year were not abnormal, and had it not been for the special appropriations I mentioned, we could have shown a very favorable statement. We were able to make unusually handsome profits out of our exchange operations, owing to the fact that during the troubled times, when the community were inclined to scrutinize bills very closely our credit stood so high that our exchange was in active demand, at remunerative rates, when others were taken only at lower rates, or avoided altogether. During a considerable portion of the year also, rates for money ruled high in the United States; but we cannot in the future, count on so active and profitable a demand, or on such remunerative exchange transactions.

There is only one other subject to which I wish to refer, one alluded to in the director's report, the necessity of arranging some scheme by which insolvent estates can be equitably divided among the creditors, as speedily, and with as little expense as possible. I do not advocate a return to the old act of 1874, though even that would be better than the present state of affairs; but I should like to see a court of bankruptcy appointed for that purpose, employing only salaried officials and with the expenses of winding up limited to a certain percentage of the net amount available for distribution. It would be premature to go into details, but I think it a subject worthy of the most serious consideration by the different boards of trade through the country, and I have no doubt that when they have decided on some well matured insolvent law, and it is in a shape to be placed before parliament, they will receive any assistance and influence which can be brought to bear by the different banks in Canada.

Business men know better than I can tell them the state of trade in their own particular line. Generally speaking, as a result of three bad harvests, it cannot be questioned that business has been conducted with little profit, and losses have been above the average. Naturally banks must suffer in sympathy, sooner or later, unless a decided change for the better takes place.

With regard to the future, I prefer to follow the advice of a famous American classic, who said, "Not to prophecy before you know." You have only to look back over the numerous oracular utterances of bankers for past years to discover that as prophets we are not a success. It is best to be silent, and, while preparing for the worst, hope for the best.

In conclusion I may say that I have unbounded confidence in the future of the institution. It may have its day of adversity, but I have no hesitation in saying that it will emerge from them triumphantly, with increased strength, to assist in the development of the country's resources and to continue its career of steady and solid progress.

Baring Bros., Position.

LONDON, June 8.—The governor of the Bank of England will probably take the earliest opportunity to issue a balance sheet, showing the position of Baring Bro's. affairs which at present is believed to be good. No call upon the guarantee is likely for a period. The trust scheme is by no means mature, but guarantees are liable under any circumstances.

HOW TO PLAY BACCARAT.

THE FASHIONABLE GAMBLING GAME IN ENGLAND.

A Game Purely of Chance Requiring no Brains to Play—The Aristocrats who Play it Pronounce it "Baccaraw"—Rules of the Game.

How many Victorians, gamblers included—and there are one or two of the "profession" in this city—know how to play baccarat? Probably not half a dozen, for the scientific American game of "poker" has hitherto supplied the "sporting" fraternity with a medium of exchanging cash while deluding themselves with the idea that they were having "a good time." The game is not difficult to learn; nevertheless it has been mastered by a writer on the Post-Intelligencer, who thus describes it:

It is one of pure chance, and in many of its features resembles "seven and a half," "high for luck," and "twenty-one." Six decks of ordinary playing cards are shuffled together in baccarat. The banker, who at the start may be any one of the players, divides the cards among the players, who shuffle their portions and return them to the banker. The cards are then placed in a slanting tray, ready to be dealt by being slid off one at a time and pushed over the table, to each of the players. The game is then ready to begin.

The participants have already invested their collateral in representative values that are called "markers" for want of a better name. The so-called "markers" may be of rubber, wood, leather, or any other material, and they serve exactly the same purpose as "chips" in American games of chance. Bone and ivory chips are noisy, as well as vulgar, and so the Prince and his friends use a delicate device of Russian leather, each representing a value of $50. The Prince, contrary to reports, could not, in the nature of the game, have acted as banker to the exclusion of others in the play who had the power and the inclination to divide that privilege with him.

The players sit at a table covered by a green cloth, upon which are three colored squares, placed to form the corners of a triangle. One of the triangles is the dealer's. He begins by placing a card, face down, upon each one of the squares, dealing to himself last. Two cards are given to each place. Then the players do their betting, placing their representative value upon either or both of the squares on the player's side. The players see their cards, and the banker looks at his. The numbers approaching nine, either alone or by subtracting ten from them, are most desirable. A "natural," such as a five and a four, or a six and tray, always wins, unless the banker holds one, too, in which event the bet is a "stand-off" and is the same as though none had been made. Failing of the exact number, the nearest one below it is the winner, or next, the nearest approach to eight or nine above. As in "seven-and-a-half," the players are permitted to draw cards, which are added in the sum total to the ones on which they are playing. If both the cards chance to be aces, or an ace and a deuce, the player, believing it a fair chance to win, draws in the hope of getting either a five or six, to make the total up to or as near as possible to nine. Court cards count ten. A "baccarat" is a combination making over thirty, which is a loser against anything on the board except another "baccarat." The players are against the banker, and the banker pays or takes according to the relative value of his hand against each one on the board.

The deal is changed when the banker is "tapped" or "broke." A player may signify his desire to "tap" the bank, which is to bet the full amount the banker has before him. If the latter is unwilling to play for so large an amount, he passes the tray to the "bluffer," who then assumes the responsibilities of banker, until he, too, is "tapped." Table stakes are played. The stack of "markers" or "counters" before the dealer indicates the limit of the players' bets. The banker pays from right to left. It often happens that each one of half a dozen players has bet the full amount of the dealer's pile. If the first right-hand player loses, he takes the money and pays the next one, if a winner. If often happens that where more lose than win, the banker, beginning with but enough to cover one bet, is enabled to pay all of them and still have a lease of life. In the event that the right-hand player wins all that the banker has, he takes the deal and holds it until he is either "tapped" or "broke" himself.

Suppose, for instance, that, while Prince Albert dealt the cards, the players on one side of the table were Mrs. Arthur Wilson, Sir Gordon-Cummings, Mr. and Mrs. Lycet Green, while Lieut. Berkeley Green, Gen. Owen Williams, Lieut. Levett and Arthur Stanley Williams played opposite. The bets having been made the prince would deal a king and an deuce to the first party, and a six and a seven to the second, taking for himself, perhaps a five and deuce. The first player calls for a third card, for, having two points, he desires to chance getting nearer to the winning point, nine. If the first players draw a seven to add to their king and deuce, which already counts two or twelve they are fortunate. If the card happens to be a nine, or perhaps a five, they lack two of having nine. The banker draws or not as he pleases. He has seven, which is a good "stand." The cards are shown after the point is announced, and the banker wins all the money on the second side, which has three or thirteen, because he himself is nearer nine. If the first players have drawn a seven he pays them the amount of their bets. The most desirable hand is two cards which amount to nine flat. No three cards making eight or nine are as good as a "pat" hand containing the same point. When either the players or the banker hold a "natural" it is announced at once, and the transfer of representatives is made without drawing a third card.

Such are a few of the features of the game that has disturbed all of England and been the means of showing up the way the Crown Prince has managed to spend the money given him by a devoted people. The point in this particular trial lies in the rule that no player shall bet after he has seen his hand. It was charged that Sir Gordon, after seeing that he had a "natural," which was a sure winner, surreptitiously dropped more chips on the pile.

SEALING IN THE SENATE.

Senator Macdonald Asks for Information But Does not Get Much.

"Is the Imperial Government in active consultation with the Government of the Dominion in its negotiations with the Government of the United States, on all questions referring to Behring Sea, the probability of Dominion vessels being excluded therefrom, and preventing the taking of seals therein?"

Hon. gentlemen will remember that the attitude assumed by the Imperial Foreign Office on this question two years ago, when the United States Government was given to understand that no more seizures of British vessels in Behring Sea would be tolerated, the result being that our vessels have been allowed since then to pursue their avocations unmolested. I need not say that such a firm policy gave much satisfaction throughout the country. We now find there is to be a divergence from that policy, and a coalescing of the two powers immediately concerned to exclude British and American vessels from Behring Sea. This last phase of the question may cause very serious loss to our sealers, a contingency which I hope the Government of the Dominion has well safeguarded. The present proposal, if carried out, will raise important questions of international law. This sea not being a closed sea, it is consequently a portion of the open Pacific Ocean. Have any two nations the right to step in, during a time of peace, and arrest peaceable citizens in the pursuit of their trade or calling? Supposing these vessels are placed under the flag of any other nation, would they be exempt from seizure? Forty-nine vessels have been fitted out in British Columbia this summer for sealing purposes, and if hon. gentlemen will consider the value of these vessels, with their stores and outfit, they will see how large are the interests involved; and if these vessels, without due warning of the new position about to be taken, are suddenly cut off from their work, the House will see how great and serious the loss will be. I hope the hon. Minister will be able to tell us that this Government has been taken into the confidence of the Imperial Government on this question, and that the important interests involved have been guarded by the Dominion Government.

Hon. Mr. Kaulbach—I may be excused from saying a word on this question, when it is considered that we, in the maritime province, are equally interested with my hon. friends from British Columbia in the preservation of the seal fisheries on the Pacific coast. In fact, a large number of our fishermen from the Lower Province have gone there in pursuit of seals; from the town in which I come several vessels have been purchased and are now engaged in the prosecution of the seal fishing on the Pacific coast. No doubt, if they are prevented from carrying out the purpose of the voyage they should receive some compensation for any injury they may suffer by being debarred from pursuing their calling. This close season, agreed upon between England and the United States, is practically an admission that the latter have no exclusive right to protect the seals. I am speaking now from what I have learned from reading the correspondence between the Home Government and the United States, and the question has narrowed down, not to whether Behring Sea is a mare clausum, but whether Russia, at the time she ceded Alaska to the United States, under the terms of the transfer in 1867, gave the exclusive right to the seal fisheries also. That right they claim under the Ukase issued by Emperor Alexander in 1821, prohibiting foreign vessels from approaching within 100 miles of the coast and islands belonging to Russia in Behring Sea. How far those claims were conceded or recognized by Great Britain is the question that it is now being practically narrowed down to.

Hon. Mr. Abbott—My hon. friend's question as I find it on the paper, is one which I think I can with perfect propriety answer, and which I, of course, have great pleasure in answering at the earliest possible moment, without waiting for the day the notice was given for. It is a fact that all along, and up to the present moment, and now, the Imperial Government has been and is in active consultation with the Government of the Dominion as regards the settlement of the Behring Sea question. The Canadian Government have taken the greatest possible pains to lay before the Imperial Government fully all their views on the subject, and I may say that included amongst them are their views with regard to the stoppage of the traffic of those sealers that have already left the Pacific coast, and some of them the Atlantic coast, for the fisheries. It would not, of course, be proper for me at this stage, without the papers to discuss the details of the arrangements, which I may say are not absolutely completed, although approximately near completion; but I may say this, that there is not a point which any hon. gentleman could suggest—at least, so far as I know—any precaution to preserve the interests of Canadian fishermen or of Canada, that has been neglected or ommitted in the communications which the Canadian Government have made to the Imperial Government.

A Word to Canadian Women.

With advancing civilization, women in some respects become more susceptible to certain ailments and troubles than formerly. Diseases of the nervous system have increased to an alarming extent, as all physicians know well. Thousands of women are extremely sensitive, and have very delicate nervous organisms, and consequently are more predisposed to disease than those of robust and rugged constitutions.

We meet too often the pale, weak, languid and morose woman, suffering from headache, tired brain, nervousness and dyspepsia. For this class, it is now generally admitted that Paine's Celery Compound is the great agent for imparting fresh strength to the nerves, and great vigor of the body, a glow of health to the cheeks, and brightness to the eyes.

Paine's Celery Compound in Canada is a favorite remedy with thousands of women, and physicians speak kindly of its great results.

A young man in New York was promised $5,000 by his uncle if he would abstain from drinking, using tobacco, swearing or playing cards or billiards for money until he became 21 years of age. He faithfully kept his word, and his uncle having died in the meantime, sued the estate for the $5,000. It has been held that he had a legitimate claim. New York courts do not take stock in the theory that virtue is its own reward, at least to a sufficient extent. —Gazette.

CURES DYSPEPSIA.

DEAR SIRS,—About a year ago I had a very bad attack of dyspepsia. For nearly four months I never ate a meal without suffering pain after. I kept getting worse and worse until I was obliged to give up my duties as a teacher. I had got so weak I could scarcely walk, when one day I saw an advertisement for B.B.B., and thought I would try a bottle; I did so, and before I had finished it I was able to teach again. Four bottles cured me completely. MISS JANET STUART, Muskoka Falls, Ont.

THE CRY OF MILLIONS
OH, MY BACK!
STOP IT NOW,
SOON IT WILL BE TOO LATE.
I have been troubled many years with disease of the kidneys and have tried many different remedies and have sought aid from different physicians without relief. About the 15th of April I was suffering from a very violent attack that almost prostrated me in such a manner that I was bent over. When I sat down it was almost impossible for me to get up alone, or to put on my clothes, when the Providence sent Dr. Henley, with the OREGON KIDNEY TEA, to my hotel. I immediately commenced using the tea. It had an almost miraculous effect, and to the astonishment of all the guests at the hotel, in a few days, I am happy to state, that I was a new man. I will recommend the tea to all afflicted as I have been.

WHITE ROCK, B. C.

This Townsite is situated on Semiahmoo Bay, and is the only deep water seaport between the International Bounday Line and Vancouver, B.C. It will probably be the Mainland starting-point of the Victoria, Saanich & New Westminster Railway. It is now the outlet for the finest agricultural district in British Columbia.

The C.P.R. has made a survey of a line from Vancouver direct to this point. The Royal City Planing Mills Company has built a substantial wharf here, and has established a lumber yard, which supplies the farmers of this district. A handsome Hotel has been erected and building is going on rapidly. Several influential and far-sighted corporations have acquired large tracts of land surrounding this Townsite.

SUITS TO ORDER

CHEAPER THAN EVER.

Since the formation of a union amongst the tailors in Victoria prices for clothing have advanced to such an extent that people are sending East for their suits. And we don't blame them, either, if they can save from $10 to $20 a suit. We pay union prices simply because we have to; not that we consider it right.

We were paying our men the same wages before union prices were enforced that we paid them ten years ago, when we received from ten to twenty per cent. more for our suits.

We have from ten to fifteen thousand dollars invested in tailoring, and we propose to turn it over at least twice a year, regardless of profits. To do this we will make suits cheaper than we did before we paid high prices for making up. Good Tweed and Serge Suits, $25.

Irish Tweeds, $27, $28, $30 and $32. If any other tailor in town will prove that these goods are not genuine Irish Tweeds we will donate a Thousand Dollars to any charitable institution that he may name.

Black worsted suits $40. You will get the same goods for $48 or $50 elsewhere. We intend to make a specialty of tweed suits for $30; regular price is $35 to $40. We have the store for our other business; it costs us nothing for the tailoring department; we have the stock; we have a first-class cutter, and we have capital enough to run it if we don't make a cent. So now is the time to get cheap suits to order.

We are going through the stock marking everything down. Don't take everything for granted. See our new schedule of prices.

WHAT IS WANTED.

What is wanted for Vancouver Island is a number of persons who will undertake fruit raising. At the rates fruit is at present selling, and judging from the experience of past years, there will be no serious diminution in prices throughout the season, there is money in it for the man who will engage in horticulture. Cherries are retailing at 25 cents a pound, and strawberries as high as 50 cents. Will it not pay somebody to engage in fruit raising at these rates. "But," we hear somebody say, "the moment we go to raising fruit for the Victoria market, prices will fall." Suppose they do. Cherries and strawberries can be raised at an excellent profit for 5 cents a pound—and less. Strawberries are a universal favorite. The man who has an acre of strawberries, and who can get 5 cents a pound for them will have realized a small fortune. Cheap fruit in this city would have the effect of increasing the number of consumers. Present prices have the effect of practically reducing consumption to about one-fourth of the population. Who can eat strawberries at 50 cents a pound every day? Who can afford cherries at 25 cents per pound? There is no other name for these prices than that of monstrous. The fruit dealer does not sell the quantity he would if his commodity was cheaper, while the greater mass of the public are compelled to go without a very essential article of diet. It is to be hoped that the city will donate the $25,000 asked by the Agricultural Society, and it is to be hoped that the society, on the other hand, will take steps to encourage fruit raising. Vancouver Island cannot produce cherries as early in the season as our southern neighbors, but the Vancouverites can go into the business of cherry-raising and drive the American product out of the market when their season does arrive, something that is not being done at present. The same with strawberries. Will nobody go into the business of fruit raising?

THE COUNTY COURTS ACT BLUNDER.

Judge SPINKS, of Yale, it appears, has been exceeding his jurisdiction. The fault, however, cannot be attributed wholly to Yale's distinguished purveyor of justice. Taking clause 9 of the County Courts Act for his guide, Judge SPINKS very reasonably assumed that his jurisdiction included Kootenay, and pursuant thereto he gave one BRADY eighteen months' imprisonment for stabbing a man at Nelson. But BRADY's case did not end here. His lawyers, dubious of the jurisdiction of Judge SPINKS, brought the case before Justice WALKEM, who pronounced the sentence illegal. Justice WALKEM, in rendering his decision quoted the B. N. A. Act to the effect that Judge SPINKS could only acquire jurisdiction over Kootenay by virtue of a commission from the Governor-General of the Dominion, the County Courts Act, of which Attorney-General DAVIE is the parent, to the contrary notwithstanding. We quote Justice WALKEM's ruling:

"It had always been conceded that the Legislature could not appoint a new county judge to a vacant district, and as it could not do that, it could not appoint one of the existing county judges to fill that vacancy. The territorial limits of the judge's commission were indicated by the Governor-General under the power conferred upon him by the Confederation Act, and as that power was exclusively his, the local Legislature could not usurp it, it could neither abridge nor enlarge those limits, hence it could not enlarge the area of Judge SPINKS commission, namely, Yale District, by adding, for instance, the District of Kootenay to that area. If the area defined in a commission could be thus altered, it could be so changed as to bear little or no resemblance to the original or appointed area, a contingency which never could have been intended."

This being good law, it is plain that somebody has blundered, nor is the blunder confined to Kootenay alone. Clause 1, of the County Courts Act, extends the district of Cariboo. The blunder, however, is not irremediable. Like other blunders emanating from James Bay, Orders-in-Council, and one thing and another can be invoked, and the machinery of justice brought to a standstill until such time as the Governor-General can issue the needed "commissions." But blunders of this kind do not speak well for the legal acumen of the Province's doctors-of-law, and clearly demonstrate that Justice WALKEM's legal acuteness and comprehensive grasp of constitutional questions are badly needed at James Bay. No more need be said of this unfortunate lapse of the Attorney-General's. It speaks for itself. We cannot help observing, however, that in the ruthless setting aside of the County Courts Act by Justice WALKEM, Judge SPINKS' faith in the legislative mandates of James Bay must have received a severe shock. It is not to be supposed, nor can it reasonably be expected, that His Honor, the victim of misplaced confidence, will cast his vote hereafter with the Opposition; but it is awkward, very awkward, indeed, for a Judge to get outside of his jurisdiction, and with his recent experience behind him, Judge SPINKS will do well to study the constitution of his adopted country, that he may not again be led into error through his broad, unfaltering faith in the legal omniscience of the Attorney-General.

THE WOMEN MAY SETTLE THE QUESTION.

The San Francisco Examiner's Washington correspondent telegraphs his paper to the effect that a beautifully practical issue has been raised anent the Behring Sea question. The issue is:

"Are the women of America about to take a hand in the fight, wholly regardless of Lord Salisbury, Brother Blaine, the North American Fur Company and the seal poachers?"

C. C. SHAYNE, of the New York and Chicago fur house of that name, is the man who raised this question. He was in Washington recently and visited the President. He told the President that while a close season might prevent the destruction of seal, a close season too long prolonged would inevitably destroy the market for seal skins. "If prices go up" said Mr. SHAYNE, "the demand for seal fur will diminish in proportion." Mr. SHAYNE, warming up to his subject, proceeded:

"Let me put the situation to you in a new light. Suppose the price of sealskins should be advanced from $300 to $600 a garment. Now, the American people will pay so much for a thing and no more. Mrs. Jones, Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Brown are unable to pay extravagant sums, and content themselves with mink, sable, otter or some other fur. What is the consequence? Before you can realize sealskins are out of fashion. When Mrs. Millionaire comes to buy she refuses to look at sealskins, although abundantly able to buy them by the dozen, because she wouldn't be out of style. In other words, if the fashion turns the tide from sealskins, as it will do if prohibitive prices are asked, the whole question will be settled with more certainty by the ladies of the country, and in fewer months, than it could be accomplished by Secretary Blaine in years of correspondence."

There is more truth than poetry in Mr. SHAYNE's view of the case. Seal skin furs cannot go much higher and remain marketable. The trade, confined to the rich, would scarcely be profitable for the reason that the people who are rich enough to wear expensive furs are comparatively few. It is the great middle class whom the fur dealers want for customers; the multitudinous women who pinch and save for a year or two that they may have a sealskin jacket. It is easy to see that if seal fur becomes much more valuable the moderately well-off classes will cease to buy.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Dr. LIVINGSTONE's faithful black servant, SUSI, died recently in Zanzibar. With a companion, he carried the famous explorer's body fifteen hundred miles, from the interior of Africa to the coast, suffering many privations and risking dangers in hostile territory, in order that he might save his master from an unknown grave. Parliament thanked SUSI for his performance, and even the Queen took notice of his courage and fidelity. A substantial recognition, indeed, for arduous and faithful services.

Mail: "One hundred and thirty-two persons left Newfoundland by the last steamer for Halifax, fifty were refused passage, and many more will follow during the next few weeks. They would have gone before, but the Government's promise to provide plenty of employment at $1.25 a day kept them. This promise has not been fulfilled, and now that the session is over an exodus has begun. The St. John's Herald takes the Government sharply to task for its failure to keep its word." British Imperial policy and Canadian Tory policy, will, in a few years more, have left Her Majesty's dominions on this continent practically depopulated.

Concerning popular majorities, the popular majority in the recent Dominion elections was 22,343, nearly one-third of which, observes the St. John Telegraph, was obtained in New Brunswick. Continuing, the Telegraph assumes that there were in all 650,000 votes cast. Dividing these as near as may be to give the majority stated by the Gazette, we have the following division of the popular vote:

Tory votes cast	336,673
Liberal votes cast	313,328
Tory majority	23,344

"Now let us assume that the present standing of parties in the Commons is 122 Tories to 93 Liberals. A very simple calculation will show that if the representation in the Commons was in proportion to the popular vote there should be 114 Liberals to the 122 Tories. Or, if we take a House of 213 members and divide them in proportion to the vote, the relative standing of parties in the House would be about 112 Tories to 103 Liberals. With such a division of parties even the Gazette would hardly contend that the Government could be carried on by the party now in power. But if the people were fairly represented according to their party votes Sir JOHN MACDONALD would not now have a majority of more than nine in a full House. And this in face of the gerrymander, the bad voters lists, partisan returning officers, and the wholesale corruption practiced to carry the Government candidates. By the Gazette's own arguments fairly extended, is not this a virtual defeat?"

NANAIMO NEWS.

A School Picnic—Boring for Coal—School Closed.

NANAIMO, June 8.—The Inkerman Lodge, Sons of St. George, turned out in full regalia yesterday morning and attended divine worship at St. Paul's church. The Rev. J. B. Good selected for his sermon, Judges 4th book, eleventh verse. During his sermon he gave an account of the order, commencing with its origin, and the object of the order, following it along with its progression. He delivered a few scathing remarks to the class who so strongly opposed the order in its youth, and the forcibility of his utterance went straight to the hearts of every member of the order present. The reverend gentleman appeared to be well acquainted with the details of the order.

SCHOOL PICNIC.

The young ladies of the High School were enabled to enjoy a holiday on Saturday last by the generosity of Miss Gardiner, principal of the girls' school, who had engaged a special car for the purpose of taking her class and the above ladies on a picnic down the line. The young ladies looked exceedingly happy as they departed from the depot, in spite of the shower which threatened to fall every minute. They went to Chemainus river, where they enjoyed themselves immensely, although as they were about to take dinner, and had the table cloths spread, a shower came down and forced them to retreat to the cars. The shower did not last long and then the whole party proceeded to enjoy themselves in various games, with which they were well acquainted. They returned to the city by the evening train, well contented with the day's enjoyment.

A SOCIAL SESSION.

The above company succeeded in drawing a crowded house here last Saturday night, and the performance was one that well suited the audience present. From the commencement to the finish the audience was kept in roars of laughter and repeatedly called for encores. The management have decided to engage no more troupes unless they enjoy a good reputation, and by this means they expect to have a full house right along.

THE ASSIZES.

The assize court was brought to a close on Saturday with three convictions out of six cases. His lordship gave sentence as follows: Thomas Wilson, for forgery, ten years in the penitentiary; Ah Sin, for larceny, six months imprisonment; A. Alderman, for carnal knowledge, 10 years in the penitentiary and to receive fifteen strokes of the lash.

LITTLE HAPPENINGS.

The football match between the Nanaimo and Northfield teams on Saturday resulted in a draw.

A few strawberries were brought into the city yesterday, having been picked from a private garden. This speaks well for the climate of British Columbia.

One of the Chinese wash-houses caught fire at Wellington on Saturday and burned to the ground. A quantity of clothing was destroyed by the fire, which belongs to a few of the residents.

NANAIMO, June 9.—Five young men belonging to this city repaired to one of the boat-houses on Sunday morning where they hired a sail boat. Great excitement prevailed at the boat-house when it was found they had not returned, and as soon as daylight dawned on Monday morning boats were sent in every direction to search for the missing. However the steamer Dunsmuir arrived here about 5 o'clock and put all doubts to rest by reporting having seen the boat close to the Narrows at Vancouver, where they were evidently awaiting the turn of the tide to enable them to reach the city. When the wanderers return they will find a big bill awaiting them which they will be required to settle.

CHEMAINUS SCHOOLS CLOSED.

In consequence of the ravages of diphtheria at Chemainus the school trustees have decided to close all the schools in that district. There are three different schools in the district which will be kept closed for an indefinite period. The dread disease is also spreading again in Nanaimo and district and one or two of the local doctors have their hands full at the present time although so far there has scarcely been any serious results.

BORING FOR COAL.

It is stated authentically that the Dunsmuirs intend to commence boring operations on Newcastle Townsite immediately and when they have put down a certain number of bores they intend to put down a bore at intervals all the way between Wellington and Comox. It is the general belief that unless new fields of coal are discovered that the Wellington mines will not last many more years. But, no doubt, they will be successful in striking a good seam on Newcastle Townsite which may last for many years.

LITTLE HAPPENINGS.

A quoit match has been arranged between Thomas Muncie and W. Bowater, for $250 a side. The match to take place at East Wellington on June 20th.

The Knights of Pythias will decorate the graves of their departed brethren next Sunday.

A foot race for $50 a side has been made between James McKay and Harry Lee, both of Northfield.

There are said to be a large number of men at Wellington who are out of employment, and the numbers are increasing daily.

The Spring Medicine

The popularity which Hood's Sarsaparilla has gained as a spring medicine is wonderful. It possesses just those elements of health-giving, blood purifying and appetite restoring which everybody seems to need at this season. Do not continue in a dull, tired, unsatisfactory condition when you may be so much benefitted by Hood's Sarsaparilla. It purifies the blood and makes the weak strong.

Health in Herbs.

Health-giving herbs, barks, roots, and berries are carefully combined in Burdock Blood Bitters, which regulate the secretions, purify the blood and renovate and strengthen the entire system. Price $1 a bottle, six for $5. Less than 1 cent a dose.

THE CITY AND DISTRICT

An Object Lesson.

For Drill Shed.....$20,000
For Harbor..... 5,000

Pay Provincial Taxes.

Taxes payable to the Provincial Government ought to be paid before the end of the present month. Those who neglect to do so will have to pay fifty per cent. more.

Pastor for Northfield.

Rev. Mr. Palace, of St. Catharines, Ontario, has been appointed Methodist minister at Northfield, and is expected to arrive shortly and enter upon his new field of Christian duty.

Young Men's Institute.

The nomination of Officers took place at the meeting of Seghers' Council, No. 85 which was held last evening. The secretary announced that the roll contained the names of 78 members.

Will Run Together.

The steamer Olympian of the U.P. line was taken to Olympia yesterday to go on the ways. She will be cleaned up and repaired and put on the Victoria-Tacoma route making alternate trips with the steamer Victorian.

Kootenay Tourist Route.

D. C. Corbin, president of the Spokane Falls & Northern has returned to Spokane Falls from New York. The Spokane Falls & Northern and Canadian Pacific Railways are likely to be the tourist route through the Kootenay country this year.

Opened an Office.

The newly organized Longshoremen's Union has opened an office on Wharf street, where the secretary will always be found. Employers of labor will do well to call there when they want help as this union guarantees to furnish good, reliable men.

For Kootenay.

Joshua Davis, Douglas Dick, G. A. McTavish, F. J. Fell, James Hutcheson and Mr. Furvis left last night via the C.P.R. for Kootenay. The party will visit Nelson, Ainsworth, and other lake points and mining camps, and Spokane Falls, and will be absent about twenty days.

Another Returned Chinaman.

Deputy U. S. Marshal Lovel arrived yesterday from McNeil's Island with a "returned" Chinaman. He paid the usual $50 for the return, or rather the Chinaman paid it in preference to being taken to San Francisco and from there transported back to China again.

President Oakes' Visit.

G. G. Chandler, general passenger agent of the Northern Pacific, arrived from Tacoma last evening on private business and will return again this evening. He stated that President Oakes was still in California inspecting some roads there and it would be some time before he would reach Victoria.

Very Sad if True.

Jarbeau as Starlight.

The audience at the Victoria Theatre last evening were more than satisfied, they were pleased with that bright sparkling farce-comedy, Starlight. Jarbeau was as catching as ever and she was supported by a splendid company that kept the audience roaring from the rise of the curtain till midnight. Miss Jarbeau's imitation of Mme. Theo in "Where are you Going my Pretty Maid" was splendid. Starlight will be repeated to-night.

A Cowardly Man.

Three drunk and disorderlies were disposed of at the Police Court this morning, being fined $5 each. That notorious man Angel (David) Keffee was there charged with assault and battery, by one Emma Lotterson. The plaintiff and witness swore that Keffee had put her out of his house, struck her in the face and kicked her several times. The woman had a badly swollen eye to show for the fracas. His Honor sentenced the accused to pay $10 fine and the costs.

Bazaar by Young Ladies.

The bazaar to be given by the young ladies of St. Andrew's Cathedral in Philharmonic Hall gives promise of being a great success. The hall will be very prettily decorated by fair hands and many novelties are being prepared. Noon lunch, 5 o'clock tea and dinner will be served on both Wednesday and Thursday and on each evening there will be a musical and literary entertainment. There will also be booths for the sale of useful and fancy goods of all descriptions as well as a number of articles to be put up in lotteries.

Officers Installed.

The installation of officers of Milton Lodge, No. 311, Sons of St. George, took place in St. George's Hall, Bastion street, last night. G. W. President W. E. Ottaway officiating. The new officers are as follows: Thomas Bradbury, W. President; W. Greasley, Vice-President; John Howard, Secretary; J. C. Richards, Treasurer; S. H. F. Robinson, Messenger; L. Leigh, Assistant Secretary; J. D Shallard, Assistant Messenger; E. J. Foster, Chaplin; A. E. Wilson, Inside Sentinel; W. Kent, Outside Sentinel; W. Ottaway, Rep. to Grand Lodge. Mr. John F Norris was elected an honorary member of the Order.

The "At Home."

The "At Home" last evening, given by the ladies of the First Presbyterian Church, proved to be a most pleasant and successful affair. Rev. Dr Reid officiated as chairman, and kept the audience in continued good humor. An impromtu programme of songs and instrumental music was rendered by the following ladies and gentlemen: Mr. J. G. Brown, Mrs. McCandless, Mr. Kinnaird, Mr. Watson, Miss Russell and Mr. Gold. When the musical programme was about half over Dr. Campbell was called upon to make some remarks. He expressed himself as highly pleased with his visit to Victoria, and was only sorry that it was for so short a time, and he will look forward with much pleasure to the day when he can visit Victoria again. Refreshments were served, and when the gathering broke up all went home feeling that they had had a most enjoyable evening. The doctor left for the east by the Yosemite this morning.

Gas Fixtures.

Braden & Stamford have just imported a fine lot of gas fixtures which every one should see before going elsewhere.

News From a Sealer.

A letter was received last evening from Capt. Alex. McLean, of the sealing schooner Hamilton Lewis, dated May 28th. He had 680 skins at that time with fair prospects of a big catch. He reported no other schooners.

The Place to go to.

To make room for our new stock of goods that is coming, we will sell the stock in hand consisting of gent's furnishing, etc., at prices that have no equal. Our children's jersey suits will all be sold at cost. Lion Gent's Furnishing House, 74 Yates street.

Alternate Trips.

It is understood that the C.P.N. Company are making arraugements to run the steamers R. P. Rithet and Princess Louise alternately on the Westminster route. This would make the work much lighter and give the public better accommodation than that afforded by the Yosemite's daily trips.

The Hand of Death.

James Ventress, 42 years of age, died early this morning at his residence No. 11 Rae street, of internal cancer, after an illness of eight months. He has only been in this country a short time, having come from Yorkshire, England, two years ago. He leaves a wife but no family. The funeral will take place from his late residence on Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Wm. Whyte's Departure.

There are no new developments in the Whyte defalcation. The amount which he is behind is unknown, but there is an impression abroad that the sum is not a small one. His late employers, however, are reticent in regard to the matter, probably because they have not yet been able to make a correct estimate. Mr. Whyte, it is said, left the deeds of some real estate, which will in part cover the amount he is deficient.

News for Canoeists.

Last evening's boat from Vancouver brought over for Mr. C. C. Carpenter four Peterboro canoes. They are of different sizes, all neatly packed in one covering, which is itself strongly and neatly built. The canoes were built by the Peterboro Canoe Co., of Peterboro, Ontario, and are, as is always the case with boats turned out by this company, of the very best workmanship. These will make quite an addition to the number of canoes already to be seen in the harbor.

Fell From the Roof.

J. Anderson, a painter employed by Jos. Sears, was the victim of a rather serious accident this morning. He, with Jas. Devine was at work on the roof of Wm. Rocket's new house on Johnson street, when a scantling upon which they were resting gave way. The two men slid down the steep roof and Anderson went over the edge to the ground. Devine, luckily grabbed the gutter as he was descending and succeeded in raising himself up. When picked up Anderson was in a pretty bad state, his head and face being badly cut. His leg was also hurt. He was taken to Mr. Rocket's residence where he was attended to.

Memorial Services To-Morrow.

The memorial services over the death of the late Sir John A. Macdonald, in Christ Church Cathedral, will be held at 11 o'clock. This is the same hour, allowing for the difference in time, that the services will be in progress at Ottawa. His Lordship Bishop Hills, will officiate at the memorial services, which will be as solemn and beautiful as the ritual of the church and the universal regret at the Premier's death can make them.

The public, irrespective of faith or creed, are invited to join in the services, and during their progress there will be, while not universal, a large cessation from the usual occupations of the day.

To Invade Victoria.

Captain Lovell of Tacoma Department, commander of the Grand Army of the Republic was in Victoria yesterday. He stated that he has completed arrangements to establish a Grand Army post here, which will have twenty five charter members.

Grand Commander Veazey of the order has authorized Capt. Lovell to formally establish the post here which he will do at an early date. This G.A.R. Post will be the third in existence outside of the United States, the first was opposite Detroit in Canada and the second in the Sandwich Islands. Mr. William R. Cadman has the local charge of making preparations for its installation.

Something Odd.

The members of the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor of the First Presbyterian Church are going to enjoy themselves in a rather novel style on Wednesday evening by having what they call a "Straw Ride." They have hired a number of roomy conveyances, without seats, which they intend to fill with straw, and then pile in "promiscus like," and have a good jolly ride, probably round Mount Tolmie and other interesting places. The "Straw Ride" seems to be somewhat of the same nature as the old-fashioned "bob-sleigh" ride, of the frozen east, but it will lack the exhilirating air, the warm buffalo robes and music of the sleigh bells that so delight our eastern relatives.

An Informal Meeting.

An informal meeting of the city council was held last evening to hear what the promoters of the Victoria, Saanich & Westminster Railway had to say for their road. The city has already guaranteed $500,000 bonds of the company, but they now ask for a cash subsidy of the same amount. Hon. Amor DeCosmos, ex-Mayor Redfern, J. S. Yates, R. Hall, F. Page and A. Wilson, who represented the company argued in favor of their road and showed that by the route to be taken much quicker time could be made between Victoria and the East. They announced their willingness to allow all roads to use the line under traffic arrangements. The council will take action on Wednesday evening.

Fruits and Flowers.

The British Columbia Horticultural Society and Fruit Grower's Association will hold an exhibition of fruits and flowers in this city, about the end of July or the beginning of August. This society, which was organized on the Mainland, held a very successful exhibition last year, and it is to be hoped that the growers of fruits in Vancouver Island will avail themselves of the opportunity offered this year, in the holding of the exhibition in Victoria, to show what this portion of the province can do in that line. The tickets for membership are $2, and each member will receive a copy of the Horticultural Journal. Subscriptions received by W. H. Bambridge, Secretary of the B. C. Agricultural Society, who will give all information that may be desired about the forthcoming exhibition. The encouragement of this exhibition is a matter that should have the attention and support of every person, for there is a great deal to accomplish in this line before our province will attain to the position which she ought to occupy as a producer of the natural fruits of the country. There will be a market in the northwest for all the fruit that British Columbia can raise, and if that market is supplied by our people, we will be in possession of an industry probably not much inferior to some of the recognized wealth-producing industries now in existence. Fortunes will yet be made in British Columbia in growing fruit for the great northwest.

Firemen's Tournament.

A preliminary meeting to make arrangements for the forthcoming firemen's tournament was held last evening. A communication was read from the secretary of the Northwestern Firemen's Association, Mr. C. W. Watts, asking the amount to be set aside for prizes and explaining that the meeting of the association will be held here. It was the unanimous opinion that every effort should be made to receive the visitors and offer substantial prizes. The races will be held on one of the principal streets and will last two or three days. It is expected that four hundred firemen will take part in the races and their friends from the various cities in Washington, Oregon, and this Province will be in attendance. The meeting of the Association in this city will be held during the evening, when topics of interest to the heads of the departments will be discussed. The chiefs and officers of the Association will attend the meeting. At the last convention, held in Tacoma, the President, Mr. B. Worsley, of Astoria, presided and among the visitors were Chief Morgan of Portland, Chief McDonald of Seattle, Chief Weatherspoon of Spokane, the Chief and officers of Tacoma, Albany, Corwallis, Victoria, Vancouver, Nanaimo, and New Westminster. The people of Vancouver made every effort to secure the tournament this year. A telegram was sent to the secretary of the Association offering $4000 in prizes should they give the preference to Vancouver and a committee was appointed to make arrangements. The secretary replied that Victoria would have the tournament and meeting, provided satisfactory arrangements were made and it remains for the people of Victoria to show their appreciation by subscribing towards the funds to be raised to meet the expenses. From latest reports it is expected that teams from the following places will compete: Portland, Astoria, Tacoma, Seattle, Albany, Corwallis, Vancouver, Wash., Port Townsend, Port Angeles, Fairhaven, Whatcom, Nanaimo, Vancouver B.C., New Westminster, Walla Walla, Spokane, and East Portland. Each team will consist of fifteen men.

OLD "TEANEY" REMOVED.

She Was Taken to Seattle by Her Daughter Last Evening.

Poor old Teaney has left Victoria. She was taken away to Seattle last evening by her daughter who will hereafter see that she is well taken care of. Who didn't know the old woman who for years has walked the streets of Victoria picking up wood and other articles that even Indians would pass by. Those boys and girls who were brought up in Victoria will no doubt remember, when her name is mentioned, some of the jokes they played on this unfortunate woman. How they got small pebbles and by rubbing them on the nails of their shoes made shining streaks in them, to fool old Teaney. She of course good-naturedly accepted them, but the children soon discovered that she did not spend them at the baker's as she promised to do, but quietly dropped them, and then the rumor went around that she was rich.

Many other things could be related of this eccentric genius who until recently was a familiar figure in the residential portion of the city. In 1887 she had her hands and feet badly frozen, which put a stop to her wanderings, and if it had not been for the late ex-Mayor Fell it is doubtful if she would have lived to see the comfortable home that she is now being taken to. That charitable gentleman during the cold weather of '87, looked after the old woman, feeding and sheltering her. Since his death she has been taken care of by neighbors and her daughter.

CHAPTER III.

ON THE ROAD TO GLORY.

The order to march had come. Uncle Sam in those days did not waste much time in turning his citizens into soldiers—perhaps not as many days as the German or English Governments would have demanded months—but when Frank's regiment, together with the Twenty-seventh and Thirty-ninth Ohio Infantry, turned out of barracks they presented a very imposing martial array—at least so thought the country people, through whose villages they passed, and who were at that time in mortal dread of a raid by the enemy from Kentucky. So they cheered the bold boys as they went along and showered blessings on their heads, not forgetting, too, the more substantial comforts of hot coffee and cold lemonade brought in buckets by grateful women. With banners flying and drums beating his must have been a cold nature indeed whose enthusiasm was not kindled by this fluttering panoply of war.

Their objective point was the Ohio river, which they reached in due time, when they were transported by boats down the muddy but majestic stream to St. Louis.

Here their first real trouble befell them. The boys got news of the gathering storm, even before they made the city, when on stopping to "wood-up" at a lone landing, a grinning countryman yelled jeeringly at them.

"Hullo, Yanks, you 'uns 'ull get it almighty hot down at the city. The Secesh's is swarmin' over the hull place, an' they're a-goin' to give yer a reg'lar hooroar on landin'. I allow yer'd better turn roun' an' go home, while yer skins be tol'ble whole."

A bullet from an officer's pistol—fired to frighten, not to kill—cut the joker's facetiousness short and caused him to retire with more expeditiousness than dignity, but the result of his pleasantry was observable in the serious faces of many—especially of those who had been most expressive of their desire to meet the enemy. The trouble was—whether by design, or because some one had blundered—there was no ammunition. The brilliant pageant after all was but like a painted picture of war's alarms.

When, however, they reached the docks, and found the broad wooden quays deserted, the laugh went round, and the men "fell in" with many a simple jeer at each other's nervousness.

It was not till they reached the streets that the storm burst upon them. A cloud of dust it seemed to them at first. Then out of it crashed the roaring din of a frenzied mob shrieking vengeance.

For a moment the ranks halted. Then, loud and clear as a trumpet came the command:

"Fix bayonets! Charge!"

Frank Besant was in the rear rank of the last company, and as the rioters rallied round by-streets and massed behind the soldiers, the hardest brunt of fighting was immediately around him. As yet no serious wounds had been received by the soldiery, though many were cut and bleeding, when suddenly Frank saw his Captain, Charles Fulton, the gallant young son of his Colonel, reel and fall prostrate on the sidewalk, struck on the temple by a rock hurled from a neighboring window. In a moment he sprang to the side of the insensible man, and ere the mob was upon him, managed to drag his body to the shelter of the doorway of a handsome residence. In the turmoil the incident was unnoticed by his comrades, who marched away beyond hope of rescue.

The mob was on him. In the strength of desperation he clubbed the foremost, not in his inexperience daring to trust to the bayonet; but do all he could it seemed hopeless, for as one of the crowd fell another was upon him. Then his musket was wrenched from his hands and he was defenseless—but only for an instant, for his eye fell on his officer's sword, and he snatched it from his scabbard and turned once more upon his foes. But at the first blow, which was fended by the upraised bludgeon of a brawny ruffian, the paltry blade snapped at the hilt.

Aye, I know many rich ladies nowadays, dressed in silks and seal-skins, whose fathers made their money by selling just such murderous trash to their country's defenders, and who have not even a blush for the blood that stains their finery.

Fighting to the last, Frank braced himself against the door and did his best. There was not a hope for him, for the mob was wild with rage at his determined resistance.

Then, as a crashing blow from an axe-handle fell on his uplifted arm, the door suddenly opened and he tumbled headlong into the hall-way. Luckily, too, at that moment the mob behind, impelled by the false alarm of soldiers advancing in the rear, hurled his assailants forward, and he had time to recover himself and drag his wounded Captain inside the house. The heavy door was slammed and bolted, and for the time he was safe.

Well might he stare around him with wondering eyes. Before him stood a young girl, pale as a sheet with excitement, but beautiful beyond his dreams of woman's loveliness. He had never seen that peculiar type of feminine perfection found only among the Southern ladies, which combines the flashing beauty of the daughter of Italy with the healthy vigor of the Saxon maiden. Somehow or other he had got it into his head that all the young women south of Mason and Dixon's line were sallow specimens of humanity with lackadaisical manners and feeble constitutions; so this glorious young creature was a revelation to him.

She blushed under his ardent gaze, and said, demurely:

"I was watching your unequal struggle through the window-blinds, and at last summoned up courage enough to unbar the door and give you shelter."

His eyes alone thanked her.

"But come," she added impatiently, "this is no time for explanations. Raise your friend's head while I summon assistance, for we are only women in the house as the domestics have fled in terror to their quarters."

Even as she spoke she left him.

Presently, however, she returned, accompanied by a sweet old lady with silver hair, and a bevy of colored women, whose neat white caps and aprons showed a gleaming contrast to their ebon skins.

"Here, you, Aunt Chloe and Lucinda, help this gentleman to carry his wounded friend to the guest chamber"—for already Charles Fuller was showing feeble signs of animation—"And you, Dorothea, fetch me some brandy, a sponge and a basin of warm water."

Even at that eventful moment young Besant may be forgiven if he felt pleased that notwithstanding his private uniform the courtly old lady had alluded to him as a gentleman, for he knew that the Southerners never applied the term to others than those they considered their equals in culture and position.

"Now," said the hostess, graciously, when the sick man had been laid upon the bed. "You two"—meaning the young lady and Frank—"had better go down-stairs and wait results. If my simple appliances fail to effect a cure, a physician must be fetched at all hazards, though the disturbed state of the streets compels us to look at that as a last alternative. The women are too frightened to venture out, and your uniform would attact undesirable attention."

Thus it happened that Frank found himself once more tete-a-tete with the charming Southern girl, who, as soon as they reached the luxurious parlor, set herself about inquiring after his personal injuries, which, in the hurry of attending to the more serious state of his friend, had been ignored. He was shocked, as he passed a mirror, to see the unpresentable condition he was in—clothes torn, face swollen and bleeding and hands literally black with dirt.

The girl smiled as she read his thoughts.

"It is a soldier's lot," she said, "and yours are honorable scars; do not be discomfited."

"If I could only secure a little soap and water," Frank said, with a lugubrious air.

There was no affectation about her, no fine ladyism to freeze him into a sense of seeming troublesome.

"Come with me," she said, cheerfully, "and we will see what Aunt Mattie the cook can do for you. It is useless your waiting until a chamber can be prepared."

He followed her into the kitchen where Aunt Mattie, a stout, motherly colored woman, speedily made preparations for his ablutions, while his conductress tripped back to the reception room, promising to wait his arrival.

But when, with Mattie's assistance, he strove to take off his coat, the wound in his arm pained him so intensely that he could not bear to raise it, though in the excitement of the past quarter of an hour he had been unconscious of his hurt.

"Fo' de Lord, chile. Yo' arm's broke," cried the excited woman, as, notwithstanding Frank's remonstrances, she ran to the parlor to call the aid of her young mistress.

Deftly and coolly as an experienced nurse, the girl set to work to relieve him, with a half-amused smile at his ill-repressed astonishment at her action.

"Now," she said to him, "sit on this chair; rest your arm on the table—so. Mattie, give me my scissors." And before he could realize what she was going to do, she had ripped the seam of his coat sleeve and bared the bruised but sinewy limb.

Aunt Mattie had shrewdly guessed what was about to follow, and already stood with a bottle of lotion at her young lady's elbow.

"Does it hurt you much?" the girl asked in a tone of exquisite sympathy as she poured the creamlike liquid over the inflamed muscles.

It seemed like Heaven to him—the delicious coolness of that magical application—the tender touch of that well-shaped hand on his burning flesh. Then she bound his wounded arm carefully with lint bandages, and, taking a silk scarf from her own neck, hastily fashioned it into a sling.

"There," she said, merrily, "that will do for the present—almost as well as grandma could have fixed it. Now let us go to pleasanter quarters."

As soon as they reached the parlor, Frank managed to express somewhat lamely his thanks for the services she had rendered him; but she was in a merry mood now, and would not let him linger on the theme of his obligations. Presently, but as it seemed to Frank quite naturally, considering the interest the girl had manifested in him, the current of conversation turned on the military movements.

After asking many questions, which Frank was unable to answer, she casually remarked, as though it was a matter of no importance:

"I suppose you are on your way to help Lyon redeem General Sigel's defeat at Carthage?"

"Really, I do not know. The commanders of the expedition have not discovered sufficient merit in me to let me share their confidence. A private soldier, young lady, is the mere cog of a wheel in the machinery of war, and knows about as much of the whys and wherefores of things as that senseless piece of mechanism does of the reason of its rotation."

"Yes, I know all that, but even a man in the ranks need not be quite a fool."

There was such a flash of insolence in her manner that Frank started in pained surprise.

THE TONTINE POLICIES of the EQUITABLE LIFE ASSURANCE SOCIETY not only PROTECT YOUR WIFE AND CHILDREN if you should be taken from them, but also YIELD A HANDSOME RETURN TO YOURSELF, if you live and keep your policy in force.

IT IS EASY FOR ANY LIFE COMPANY TO SHOW LARGE RETURNS ON POLICIES WHICH MATURE AS DEATH CLAIMS.

But THE EQUITABLE shows LARGE RETURNS ALSO TO THE LIVING POLICYHOLDER.

Its Twenty-Year Tontine Policies maturing in 1891 (by the expiration of their Tontine Periods), have a Cash Surrender Value equal to A RETURN OF ALL PREMIUMS WITH INTEREST, at rates varying from 2½ to 7 per cent. per annum.

The Ordinary Life Policies, if continued in force, become not only SELF-SUPPORTING, but even INCOME PRODUCING.

The Endowment Policies yield in every case nearly or quite Seven Per Cent. per Annum on the Premiums paid.

Take, as an illustration of this, Endowment Policy No. 64,925, issued by the Equitable in 1871, at age 27. Amount, $5,000; premium, $239.90; total premiums paid, $4,798.

RESULTS AT END OF TONTINE PERIOD IN 1891.

Cash surrender value - - $8,449.45
(Equal to $176.10 for each $100 paid in premiums, which is equivalent to a return of all premiums paid with interest at 7½ per cent. per annum):
Or, in lieu of cash,
A paid-up life policy for - $19,470.00

DANA ON THE SOUTH.

It Will Take About 2000 Years for the Negro to Equal the White Man.

New York Tribune: "What has struck us most in the south is the total disappearance of all things connected with the civil war. The war seems to have sunk into oblivion, and I sometimes doubted that there ever was a war, as no reference was made to it. This is a most gratifying progress of public sentiment toward the grand unification of the country. Everyone seems to be imbued with patriotism."

"Have you noticed any progress among the negroes?"

"I think they have improved immensely. One great improvement is in the purification of the breed. They are getting blacker, an evidence that freedom produces purity."

"Will the negro catch up with the whites in civilization, and some day stand on the same footing?"

"You must remember that the white men are of Aryan breed and have been engaged in political ameliorations and intellectual pursuits for more than 5000 years. The negro, on the other hand, has been engaged in these only a little over a century—125 years. If you expect them to achieve a degree of progress in character and refinement in 125 years when the whites have used 5000 years to accomplish this, you will be greatly disappointed. At the end of 2000 years he will be up to us in everything."

JACK TARS' PANTS.

An Explanation of Why Sailors Have Wide Bottomed Pants.

The truth, for this cannot be vouched for, but once the question arose in the Army and Navy Club, of London, as to what was the origin of the extreme width of sailors trousers. No one present appeared to know, so the question was referred to an absolete member of the Royal Navy for investigation. A few days afterwards he told the following story, which explained the origin and cause of the mariners' wide bottomed trousers:

Several centures ago, a British transport ship had on board a regiment of infantry, which they desired to land at a place, in a haste, where the ship could not approach near the shore. A battle was in progress and the boats could not be used, both because of the haste and the extreme shallowness of the water. There was but one thing to be done and that was to wade ashore, so the regiment were ordered to jump overboard and get on dry land the best they could. The water was shallow, but the mud very deep, and the entire regiment got mired fast, and the battle was almost lost because of their non-appearance on the field.

Such a predicament could only arise but once in a great while, but the possibility of its arising again to the sorrow of a defeat, set the Admiralty to thinking how to prepare for it. A number of means were suggested and experimented upon, but all proved unproctical as too unhandy, considering how seldom they were to be put into actual use. A little incident that happened in the presence of a member of the Admiralty board, who had had the subject under discussion, suggested an idea that was carried out in having the present regulation for sailors pants carried out.

He was traveling in Australia with a pleasure party, and while on foot they they were in the middle of a quicksand and they all began to sink. In the party were several ladies who all were saved by their clothing holding them up, but several of the men lost their lives before assistance could come to their aid. At the suggestion of this member of the Admiralty board several experiments were made of different kinds for below the waist gear for the soldiers, which resulted in the present wide bottom pants being determined upon for sailors, and the idea has been adopted in every navy of the world.

From actual experiment it was found that with the aid of these pants a man would not sink below his knees after trials in several muddy rivers. Never since has the occasion arisen for a practical application of the advantages of this extra cloth and now typical cut, but the intention is that if it does the sailors are to carry the soldiers on their backs to dry land. The narrator of the above said, when its truth was questioned, "prove otherwise."

Makes the Weak Strong

The marked benefit which people in run down or weakened state of health derive from Hood's Sarsaparilla, conclusively proves the claim that this medicine "makes the weak strong." It does not act like a stimulant, imparting fictitious strength from which there must follow a reaction of greater weakness than before, but in the most natural way Hood's Sarsaparilla overcomes creates an appetite, purifies the blood, and, in short, gives great bodily, nerve, mental and digestive strength.

That Tired Feeling

"I derived very much benefit from Hood's Sarsaparilla, which I took for general debility. It built me right up, and gave me an excellent appetite." ED. JENKINS, Mt. Savage, Md.

Fagged Out

"Last spring I was completely fagged out. My strength left me and I felt sick and miserable all the time, so that I could hardly attend to my business. I took one bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and it cured me. There is nothing like it." R. C. BEGOLE, Editor Enterprise, Belleville, Mich.

Worn Out

"Hood's Sarsaparilla restored me to good health. Indeed, I might say truthfully it saved my life. To one feeling tired and worn out I would earnestly recommend a trial of Hood's Sarsaparilla." MRS. PHEBE MOSHER, 90 Brooks Street, East Boston, Mass.

IMPORTANT LAND SALE

Monday, 15th June, 11 a.m.

Oak Bay Ave. & City Property

I have been instructed to sell at my sales rooms, Fort and Langley streets,

37 FINE LOTS 37

Fronting on Oak Bay avenue and adjacent streets, averaging about 63x120 each. This property is a subdivision of 10 acres, being a part of Section LXXIV, Victoria District. All these lots are very desirable building locations; the soil is first-class loam, having a good drainage. In fact there is no finer situation in the surrounding property, and is only a short distance from Fort street. The Electric Tram Cars will run past them in a short time (about 1st July). The Oak Bay avenue has been recently graveled, and there is no doubt but this will one of the finest and most fashionable drives from the city to the beautiful beach at the end of this avenue. These lots are all surveyed and staked off. Conspicuous posts will be placed on the land, so that a stranger will be able to go and inspect any of these lots with the aid of a map of the property now in the press, and which will be ready for distribution at an early date.

This is one of the best opportunities ever offered to acquire a good homestead, as they will be sold absolutely

WITHOUT RESERVE.

The terms are:—¼ cash; ¼ six months; ¼ twelve months, with interest at 7 per cent.

MORTGAGEE'S SALE.

Subdivision Lot 4, and part of Subdivisions 1, 2 and 3 of Suburban 5-acre lot, Lot 8, Victoria city, together with a large and commodious house and stables thereon. This property is on North Park street, and was formerly occupied by the late U. Nelson.

Terms of sale, cash.

—ALSO—

At corner of Oak Bay Avenue and Fort Street.

Lot One, on which is erected a fine and commodious two-story brick residence, with stone foundation, containing eight rooms and conveniences. There is a beautiful view of the Straits from this property.

PERSONAL.

Movements of Well Known People in Various Directions.

Fred Raudolph is improving slowly.

L. Jamieson, city carpenter, is very low.

T. E. Ladner and J. A. Laidlaw, are in town.

M. J. Bissell, agent of the U.P.R., returned from Tacoma last evening.

Harry W. Morse, of Morse's detective agency, San Francisco, was in the city on Sunday.

W. E. Oosterhout returned from California on Sunday much improved in health. He will return to his home in Toronto.

Col. Matthews and family, of Duncan's, left last night, per the C.P.R., for England. He will be absent for several months, and it will not be surprising if the charms of his old home induce him to remain for a much longer period.

S. J. Pitts and family left last night for England. He will visit principally in Liverpool and London, and expects to return to Victoria in the Spring, when he will build a residence on the hill, near Hon. A. N. Richards, and enjoy a well-earned retirement from business activities.

$20,000 Destroyed.

OTTAWA, June 8.—In the accident to the Winnipeg express on the Canadian Pacific Railway at Straight Lake the sum of $20,000, which had been mailed from two banks here to Winnipeg, was destroyed. One package of $10,000 was entirely destroyed, but there was enough of the second bundle left to enable the bank to recover several thousand dollart. Who the actual losers will be is not known, but it is likely to fall on the banks shipping the money.

NASAL BALM

It is a certain and speedy cure for Cold in the Head and Catarrh in all its stages.

SOOTHING, CLEANSING, HEALING.

Instant Relief, Permanent Cure, Failure Impossible.

Many so-called diseases are simply symptoms of Catarrh, such as headache, partial deafness, losing sense of smell, foul breath, hawking and spitting, nausea, general feeling of debility, etc. If you are troubled with any of these or kindred symptoms, you have Catarrh, and should lose no time in procuring a bottle of NASAL BALM. Its speed in cases, neglected cold in head results in Catarrh, followed by consumption and death. NASAL BALM is sold by all druggists, or will be sent, post paid, on receipt of price (50 cents and $1.00) by addressing
